JobsDB.com Strengthens Position as Industry Innovator With “Dynamic Job Search on Map” and “Dashboard” design Innovative and revolutionary new features to enable users to multi-task

Hong Kong , 24 June 2010 – JobsDB.com, Asia Pacific’s leading job site, today launched a completely revamped website to give millions of jobseekers and employers an enhanced experience in their search for jobs or candidates. Its newest feature, “Dynamic Job Search on Map”, a location-based search interface, allows jobseekers to look at relevant jobs in specified locations. Users can view thousands of jobs on an in-built map on the fly, and these jobs will change as the search criteria are updated and the map is dragged. This feature is a first for any job portal in the region.

Efficient “Dashboard” Design

JobsDB.com’s new website aims to take the job search process to the next level. Focusing on user experience and improved efficiency, the proprietary system utilises the “dashboard” design which allows jobseekers and employers to perform multi-tasks on a single page without the irritating page change and pop-ups frequently experienced by web users. Through a split-screen display, named “Preview Mode”, jobseekers can view up to 100 job templates on the same page. Likewise, in “Resume Preview”, employers can open up to 100 brief or full résumés and process them under the same user-friendly design.

Industry Innovator

Since its inception, JobsDB.com has frequently enhanced its website with innovative and revolutionary designs. In 1998, it was the first to introduce “Job Alert”, emails customised to jobseeker’s search criteria, and the “Jobseeker-controlled Resume Release” function which safeguards the privacy of its members. The “Paperless Job Fair” also became a technological showcase for the company. These and other original designs have since become adopted features by the street and other jobsites in the region.

Mr Vincent Koo, Executive Director of JobsDB.com, said, “JobsDB.com is dedicated to provide user-friendly and technically advanced features for jobseekers and employers to enhance job-hunting and recruitment experiences. We believe that we will always be at the forefront to introduce original features in the online recruitment industry in Asia Pacific.”

New features to be released in July

JobsDB.com will be launching its latest RMS (Recruitment Management System) with additional ground-breaking features in July.
